Strike Will Annoy Rich Women.

Where ill-clothed, underfed girls work over costly garments that they can never hope to buy out of their wages; where profits are large and wages are small and where some of our "good-fellow" millionaires got the dollars they give away by thousands—that's the ladies' clothing industry in Chicago.

Where there's many an empty stomach paining, many a tear dropped on wonderful dresses that go to Lake Shore drive millionaire misses in beribboned boxes and where the limit on wages is at the
